Casket Hidden in Flowers.

The plain, black-cloth casket was deary was banked with flowers, ferns, and that of President McKinley.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the honorary palibearers, headed by Col. A. B. Andrews, first vice president of the Southern, filed into the church by way of the H street entrance. They occupied reserved seats in the center aisle. Mrs. Spencer and her two sons and immediate members of Mr. Spencer's family sat in adjoining pews. Vice President Fairbanks, Secretary Hitchcock, Senators Foraker and Kean, Commissioner Macfarland, Justice White J. Pierpont Morgan, and other prominent men touched elbows with the clerks and employes of the Southern, who had turned out in a body.

The Right Rev. Satterlee, bishop of the diocese; the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's, preceded by the surpliced choristers, were seated within the sanctuary railing. The rector read the "Order for the Burial of the Dead," and other Biblical passages. Then the choir sang "Lead, Kindly Light," the late President McKinley's favorite hymn. The lesson read by Bishop Satterlee was taken from the fifteenth chapter of the First Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians. This was followed by the reading of the creed, and Bishop Satterlee offered prayer.
